You Have a Power Problem

Power surges are not the only threat to your home's power and your valuable electronics and appliances. The power running through your home is also vulnerable to electrical noise and wasted energy. This daily power degradation means inefficient electrical consumption and severe wear and tear on your electronics and appliances.

3 Threats to Your Appliances and Electronics

Power Surges & Spikes

Lightning is the most well-known cause of a power spike but did you know that your home is also susceptible to damage by disturbances from your utility providers (Power, Phone, & Cable) as well as from your own motorized appliances?

Electrical Noise

Your new HE appliances reduce energy usage by consuming power sporadically, but they also create electrical noise or bad power that can actually harm your electronics and appliances and could potentially affect your own health due to electromagnetic fields (EMF).

Wasted Energy

Many appliances in your home utilize a motor (refrigerators, freezers, washers, dryers, dishwashers, vacuum cleaners, heating and air units, etc.) These appliances operate most efficiently when operating at full capacity but waste energy otherwise, causing an average of 23% of energy wasted in every home.

TRIPCON Does More than Protect

Responsible energy management requires more than just surge protection. TRIPCON not only provides six-way surge protection, but it also offers premium electrical noise filtration which maintains better performance and increases the life of your electronics and appliances. Additionally, TRIPCON captures energy wasted by inefficient appliances and uses it to lower your energy consumption and save you money. Finally, TRIPCON is the only energy management system on the market with a UL 1449 4th Edition Certification.
